A low pressure system moving across Southern Illinois and the Ohio River Valley brought snow to the region later Tuesday night into Wednesday. This was a wet snow and with little wind it stuck to most elevated objects in addition to the ground. Temperatures were in the lower 30s. Heaviest accumulations of 4-6 inches were in the south mainly south of I-88 with 1-3 inches near the Wisconsin border. The snow diminished to flurries by noon Wednesday with little accumulations the rest of the afternoon. Additional snowfall occurred Wednesday night into Thursday morning which will be in an additional report.
